

Manual:Extension/BlueSpiceGroupManager

Contents

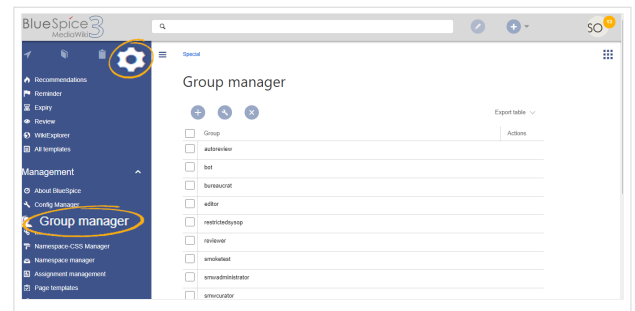

1 What is BlueSpiceGroupManager?	2
2 Where to find BlueSpiceGroupManager?	2
3 The functionality of BlueSpiceGroupManager	2
4 See also	2

What is BlueSpiceGroupManager?

BlueSpiceGroupManager is a tool for managing groups on the wiki. It allows adding, renaming and deleting groups.

Where to find BlueSpiceGroupManager?

BlueSpiceGroupManager provides a special page Special:GroupManager which is available from the right navigation in Global Actions tab, Management group.

The functionality of BlueSpiceGroupManager

Following functionality is provided by this extension:

- Overview of the groups - list of all user groups available on the wiki
 - Creating new groups - clicking on "plus" button above the table will open a dialog to insert new a new group.
 - Renaming a group - group can be renamed by selecting desired group and clicking a "wrench" icon above the table, or by clicking a "wrench" icon that appears in the table row, once the group is selected.
- System groups - ones provided by MediaWiki by default, or declared by other extensions cannot be renamed.

See also

Our reference page.