About the blog

Essentially, a blog is a list of comments, questions, or feedback from different users. The blog is often created chronologically, however, in the event of a public journal or blog, contributions can also come from contributors who have commented, recommended, listed with related articles or placed on a personal website.

The extension BlueSpiceWikiBlog is part of BlueSpiceWiki. The communication modes of BlueSpice Wiki are added to the main blog, there are other types of so-called social entities, such as comment, discussion topic, attachment, or a meeting.

Contributions from all these types can be consolidated and displayed chronologically with BlueSpiceWikiBlog in a timeline and filtered and sorted as needed.

This blog function is ready for use on the special page Special:Blog. This page is linked directly from the main navigation in every view with conditions. So you can start using the blog right away. It is also possible to include the blog horizontally on any sub page. Let's get right to it.

Adding the blog to a page

If you want to include a view of your blog on another page of your wiki, for example your homepage, you need to insert the necessary code block in the source code of your page.
