

Manual:Template/Template package

12.05.2025 This document was created with BlueSpice

Page of

Manual:Template/Template package

A quality version of this page, approved on 23 April 2021, was based off this revision.

Below is a set of templates which you can import into your wiki. You can upload the entire package. After unpacking the zip file, you can install all templates at the same time or individual templates as needed.

Contents

- 1 Box note
- 2 Banner box
- 3 Page / section transclusion
- 4 List of subpages
- 5 Clearfix

Instructions

1. Download the package as zip file.
2. Unzip the archive.
3. Go to the special page `Special:Import` on your wiki (this page is only visible to users with admin rights).
 - Select the individual template file you want to upload.
 - Enter a Interwiki prefix. Since this field is required for the upload, you can simply enter hw (for: hallowelt).
4. Repeat the import for any other import file from the template package.

The templates are now available in your wiki and can be added using the Insert > Template function of Visual Editor.

Box note

Clearfix

before	after
Wikis as Knowledge Base Wikis and its sister projects are currently the most popular knowledge bases. Wikis are created to store and collaboratively (dynamically) maintain or update knowledge. Different contributions are publicly linked to each other by their page IDs, which become more and more valuable as the connections between them grow and more complex. Content Management Content management (CM) is a set of processes and technologies that support the collection, managing, and publishing of information in any form or medium. When stored and accessed via computers, this information may be more specifically referred to as digital content, or simply as content. 	Wikis as Knowledge Base Wikis and its sister projects are currently the most popular knowledge bases. Wikis are created to store and collaboratively (dynamically) maintain or update knowledge. Different contributions are publicly linked to each other by their page IDs, which become more and more valuable as the connections between them grow and more complex.  Content Management Content management (CM) is a set of processes and technologies that support the collection, managing, and publishing of information in any form or medium. When stored and accessed via computers, this information may be more specifically referred to as digital content, or simply as content.

Clear the space around an image