Manual:Extension/Emoticons

A quality version of this page, approved on 17 February 2021, was based off this revision.

Emoticons are converted to small smiley images that are rendered in view mode. BlueSpice has a list of emoticons, or smilies, coming from chat jargon. These can enhance communication by expressing things like irony, for example. If a user adds a smiley to an article, this is transformed into an image.

Using emoticons

The following sequences of symbols are transformed into emoticons. Here is the list of BlueSpice smilies where you see the sequence of symbols, then the name of the image, then the image and a short description:

```
:-( sad.png  sad
:-| neutral.png  neutral, sceptical
:-@ angry.png  angry, annoyed
;-) wink.png  winking, ironic
:-D smile-big.png  laughing
:-/ thinking.png  thinking
:-X shut-mouth.png  sealed lips
:'(  crying.png  crying
:-O shock.png  shocked, surprised
:-S confused.png  undecided, confused
:lol: laugh.png  laughing
8-) glasses-cool.png  cool, sunglasses
(:| yawn.png  yawning
:good:good.png  good, thumbs up
:bad: bad.png  bad, thumbs down
:-[ embarrassed.png  embarrassed, blushing
[-X shame.png  ashamed

Note: Emoticons cannot be used directly at the start of a line! This could otherwise lead to conflicts with other wiki markup e.g. indents or lists which start with : or ;. Therefore, always leave a space before an emoticon.
